Board of sprint:

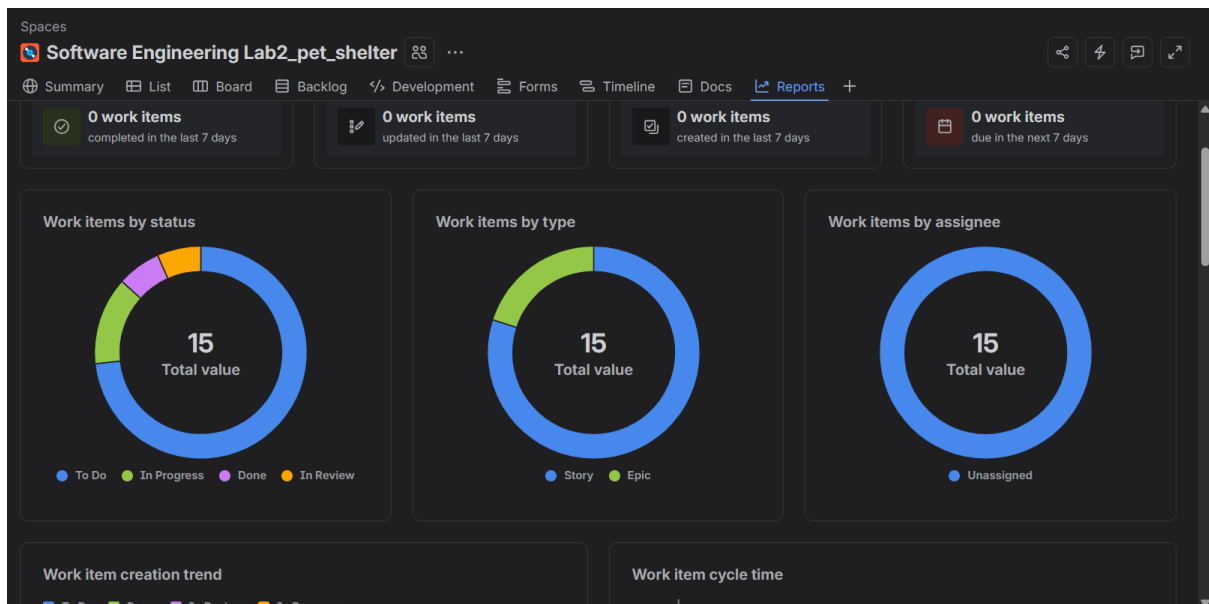

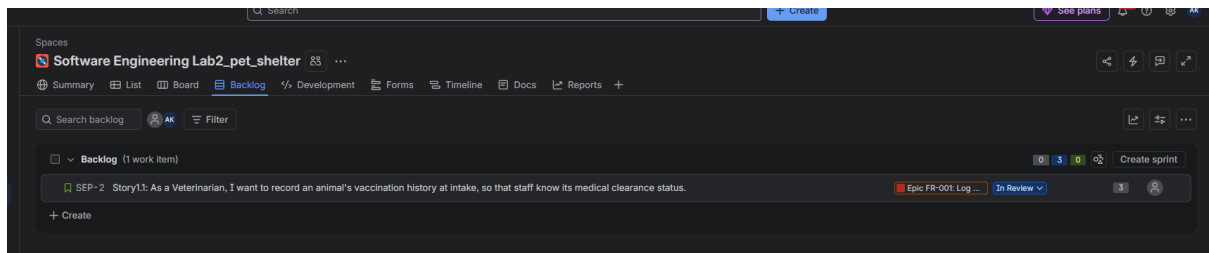

Sprint 1:

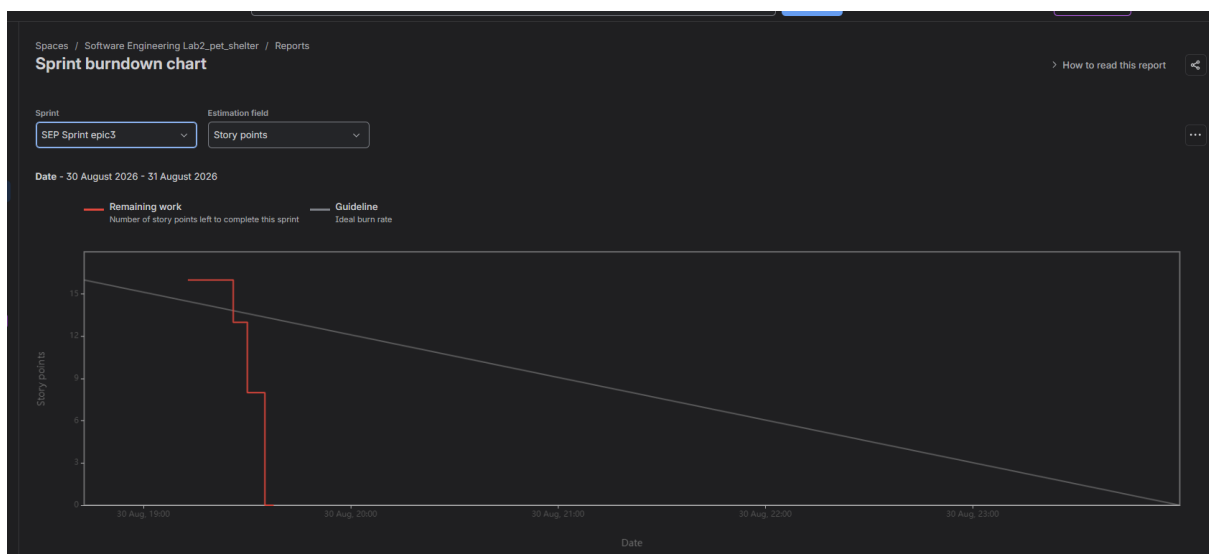

Sprint 2:

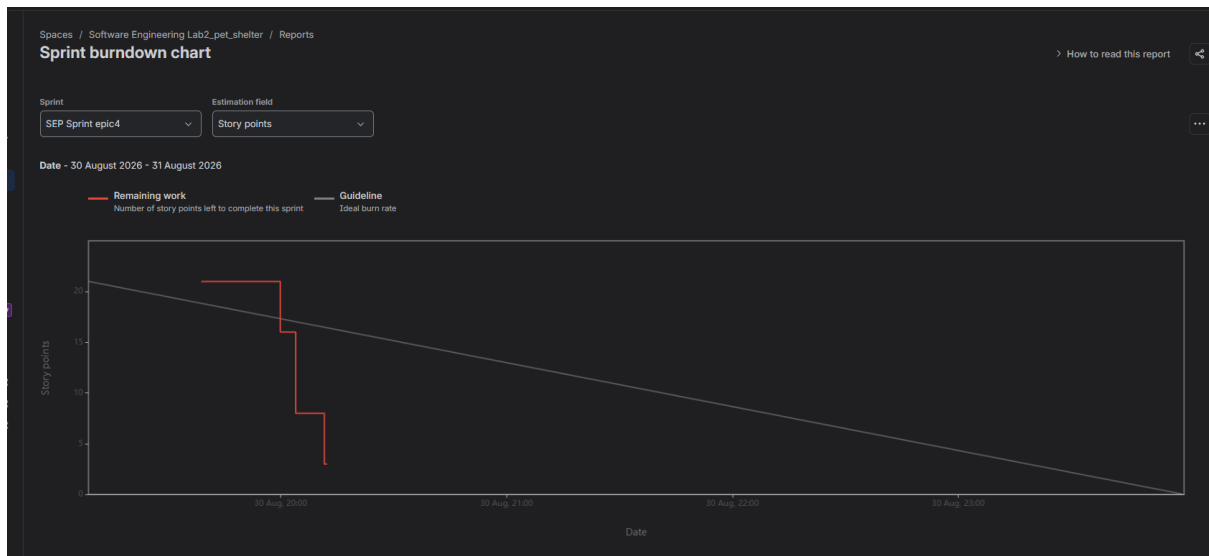

Sprint 2 is an incomplete sprint where one of the user stories was not completed and has been put into backlog section.

Burndown chart:

Reflection questions:

1. Did your estimations reflect the actual effort?

Roughly, the higher-point stories (5s and 8s) were completed later in the sprint while lower-point ones cleared first, which is the expected pattern if the point values reflected real relative effort.

2. Was your backlog well-prioritized?

Yes, Epics FR-001 through FR-003 were tackled in dependency order (medical intake and screening before search/filter), so higher-priority, foundational stories were completed before lower-priority ones.

3. How did your simulated sprint align with your plan?

Both sprints (epic3 and epic4) closed out all their story points by the end of the tracked window, with the red "remaining work" line reaching zero showing the planned scope was fully completed within the sprint.

4. What insights did the burndown chart give about your team's capacity?

The red line dropped in sharp steps rather than a smooth diagonal, staying above the grey guideline for most of the sprint before finishing indicating the team completed work in batches near the end rather than at a steady daily pace, a common pattern in short, compressed sprints.
